THE CITY

canadastock/Shutterstock.com

The historic city of Naples was founded about 3,000 years ago as Partenope by Greek merchants. Later, the settlement took the name of Paleopolis, the old city, and in 475 BC it became Neapolis, the new city. Under various phases of foreign rule, the city developed continuously, until it became the capital of the most important of the pre-unification states, the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies. The rulers of that Kingdom, the Bourbons, constructed a magnificent palace in nearby Caserta and filled the city with historic structures of all kinds.

DO & SEE

elen_studio/Shutterstock.com

The historic centre of Naples, with its splendid palaces and its popular and lively working-class districts, is now on the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites. Naples also boasts an underground city, as well as its famous panoramic views. Moreover, this hospitable city is marked by contrasts and popular traditions, such as the annual miracle whereby San Gennaro's 'blood' becomes liquid in front of the eyes of his followers.

Naples is famous throughout the world primarily because of pizza (which, you'll discover, only constitutes a small part of the rich local cuisine) and popular music, with famous songs such as 'O Sole Mio'.

Museum of Capodimonte

The castle of Capodimonte boasts a wonderful view on the Bay of Naples. Built in the 18th century by Bourbon kings, it has been the royals' summer residence for a long time; today it hosts a museum which exhibits various collections, including masterpieces by Tiziano, Botticelli, Perugino and Raffaello.

Basilica of Saint Clare

Not far from Church of Gesù Nuovo, the Basilica of Saint Clare is the biggest gothic basilica in the city. Built in provençal style in the 14th century, it has plenty to see for art history lovers, such as the remains of some of Giotto's frescoes. Here you can also find an archaeological site, a monastery, and a museum which collects historical documents, sacred relics and marble statues.

Fontanelle Cemetery

Cimitero Delle Fontanelle, also known as the Valley of Death, offers a somewhat unique - and possibly morbid - experience. For sure it is unlike any other church or cemetery in the world, and, although it might be a bit difficult to find at first, it should not be missed while in Naples.

San Carlo Theatre

This neoclassical theatre can look like it's frozen in time: the majestic golden décor and the red suede curtains will probably throw you back to the 18th century, when it was built for Charles III, duke of Bourbon. After several restorations, it is still open today, and hosts great shows such as Swan Lake.

Pompeii

When in Naples, you should seize the opportunity to go to Pompeii. The city is located south of Naples and is known for having been destroyed and buried by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 AD. Today it is one of the most popular tourist destinations in Italy, and offers many interesting (and slightly macabre) sights.

Pausilypon Archaeological Park

This majestic archaeological site is worth checking out because of its historical value, and for the majestic view over the Naples bay it offers. The villa, complete with a theatre and thermal baths, was built by Roman knight Publio Vedio Pollione, and its name means "stress relief". The place is also known for its cave, which is more than 700 meters deep into the hillside.

See Amalfi Coast

Not far from Naples, the beautiful town of Amalfi is the perfect spot for a one-day excursion: it boasts a stunning seaside and a surprisingly rich history (it used to hold a huge maritime power in the Middle Ages), which has left interesting sights such as the St Andrew Cathedral, with its scenic staircase.

To explore it fully, consider booking a guided tour. A good option, run by locals, is the See Amalfi Coast tour:

Mount Vesuvius

The only active volcano in Continental Europe, Mount Vesuvius is a popular destination for excursions, and offers a stunning panorama over the Naples bay, as well as a thrilling opportunity to look inside its crater. Infamous because it destroyed Pompeii 2 000 years ago, Vesuvius is now carefully controlled by geologists. An interesting choice can be visiting it in the morning - it's 20 minutes away from Naples - and then heading to the Pompeii archaeological site in the afternoon.

Capri

With its stunning rock cliffs over a deep blue sea and its polished, upper-class gardens and villas, this beautiful island in front of the Sorrento bay has much to offer. Don't miss the Grotta Azzurra sea cave, in which a play of lights makes the water sparkle with an ethereal blue. Admire the elegant fin-de-siècle architecture of Villa Lysis and the sea view from the terrace, or visit the rocky beaches of Marina Grande and Spiaggia di Faro. Expect the island to be crowded in the summer.

Mariya Siyanko/Shutterstock.com

Neapolitans believe their cuisine to be among the finest in the world. The best way to decide if you agree is tasting some local speciality: different pasta recipes (with the 'pummarola' tomato sauce, or 'alla puttanesca' with olives and capers), typical pastries like babà or sfogliatella, and of course an authentic pizza, which made its appearance in Naples over 500 years ago.

Neapolitan cuisine proudly uses 'poor' ingredients such as oil, pecorino cheese, and aromatic herbs to convey its typical Mediterranean taste.

Ristorante Mimì Alla Ferrovia

Since its opening in 1943, this bustling restaurant has been an institution in Naples: frequented by famous writer and actor Eduardo de Filippo, it has also hosted well-known guests like Maradona and Michael Schumacher. It offers typical Neapolitan dishes such as stuffed grilled pepper and pasta from daily markets, and has a remarkable choice of wines.

SHOPPING

Peter Zaharov/Shutterstock.com

If you're looking for fashionable clothes, accessories or jewellery, head to via Calabritto, via Filangieri, via Chiaia and via Toledo, where you'll find plenty of fashion brands such as Bulgari, Gucci and Louis Vuitton.

In the same area, two boutiques boast impressive local collections. One of them is called Ernesto Esposito (via Santa Caterina a Chiaia 20), and showcases the sexed-up heels created by its namesake designer, a Neapolitan who also works for Fendi, Sonia Rykiel and Via Spiga. The other one, Marinella (Riviera di Chiaia 287), is a tiny shop with a huge reputation for its classic men's accessories and, especially, silk ties.

A huge flea market with good bargains is found close to the Poggioreale jail and runs from Thursday through Monday. For typical handmade products, the best place to go is the Quartieri Spagnoli. This area still has the highest number of old craftsmen's shops. The sophisticated, expensive Capodimonte porcelain, cameos and gouaches are particularly famous. Naples is also tied to the traditions of leather goods as well as gold and silver objects. If you are interested in buying the famous nativity scene figurines made in terracotta you should visit via San Gregorio Armeno: here you can find all types of figurines, all made by hand.

Airport

Naples International Airport, Aeroporto Internazionale di Napoli, is located approximately 7 kilometres from the city centre. To get into the city centre, take a special bus from the local transport company ANM. Its name is Alibus and it departs 250 metres from Terminal 1 every 20 minutes. You can buy the ticket on board, or visit www.anm.it.

Taxis are available from outside the arrival concourse, and most of them have fixed rates for trips to the major destinations.

To hire a car, make an inquiry directly to a car company, such as:

Passport / Visa

Italy can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of most European countries, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea,

Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit

The best time to go sightseeing in Naples and enjoying its beauty to the fullest is probably spring or late summer - May, June, or September. The weather should be warm and pleasant, even if a couple rainy days can happen.

June and August are the best months for going to the beach and swimming, but they can be very hot. Plus, the city might feel a bit empty, since many Neapolitans go abroad on their summer holidays.

Christmas time in Naples be a surprising experience - the city gets crowded with street markets and nativity-themed stands.

Public Transport

The most comfortable way to get around Naples is walking, but since the city is quite large, sooner or later you might have to use public transport. It is best to avoid driving because of the heavy traffic.

The Unico Campania company has an integrated fare card system to cover the public transport network for the whole area. The card covers 14 different types of transportation and is called TIC ticket.

You can buy hourly, daily, weekly and monthly tickets at tobacco shops or at some newspaper stands; there are also ticket machines in many railways and metro stations.

It is very important to validate the ticket in order to avoid fines - you can find validating machines on board. Validate your daily, weekly and monthly ticket at first use, and remember to fill out personal information on the ticket if required.
