THE CITY

JohnKruger/Shutterstock.com

Close to Garda Lake, Verona is a city of rare beauty, set back against the hills to the north and laid out harmoniously along the smooth curves of the Adige river. Founded as a commercial and political town in Roman times, traces of this period remain with the massive Arena, the Roman theatre, the Gavi Arch and the Borsari gate, as well as the archaeological area of Porta Leoni and that of the Scaligeri excavations. Large sections of the ancient walls are still standing and they bear witness - along with the monumental gates and other fortifications - to the strategic importance of the city.

Verona is also full of prestigious cultural institutions, from the ancient Civic Capitolare Library to the university and the oldest Music academy in the world. The Fondazione Arena has been producing stunning opera productions for its 15.000 capacity audience for over a hundred years, and every summer an international crowd packs the open-air theatre to cheer each performance.

DO & SEE

Ana del Castillo/Shutterstock.com

The whole centre of Verona is well worth visiting, and brimming with its rich collections of churches and palaces. Crowds flock to the house and tomb of Juliet, whose tragic love-story with Romeo was immortalised by William Shakespeare.

Gardaland

Adjacent to Lake Garda, Gardaland is an amazing place to spend a fantastic day of unlimited fun for the whole family: more than 32 rides, top quality shows and the first completely themed aquarium in Italy. The resort includes Gardaland, Gardaland Sea-Life, and the Gardaland Hotel.

DINING

Catarina Belova/Shutterstock.com

Veronese cuisine is extremely tasty. Many dishes are meat-based and you should, at the very least, try the pastissada de caval—a horse-meat stew cooked in red wine with polenta (a sort of thick porridge made with maize flour). There are many different kinds of risotto available, such as risi e bisi—with peas, or coi bruscandoli—with herbs, and rich homemade pasta, especially gnocchi. Don't miss the soppressa all'aglio (salami with garlic).

Ristorante Il Desco

This place is famous all over Italy and has two stars in the Michelin guide. Recommended dishes include maltagliati (homemade pasta) with tomato and aubergine, goose foie gras and fillet of S.Peter with porcini mushroom, artichoke, lemon sauce and thyme.

CAFES

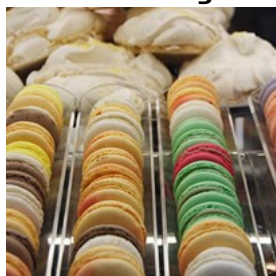

Yuriy Biryukov/Shutterstock.com

Coffee is as important as pasta for the Italians. If you want to act like a local, there are some unwritten rules you should keep in mind when ordering your coffee.

- Capuccino, Caffe latte or any other kind of coffee based on milk should only be drunk in the morning.
- When you order an espresso, don't use the word espresso which actually just is a technical phrase. Ask the barista for simply "un caffe".
- And last but not least, when ordering "un caffe" you don't sit down. Stand at the bar and drink your coffee on foot.

Either you feel like blending in or acting like a true tourist, sitting down at a table, there are plenty of cafes to choose from in Verona.

Pasticceria Flego

At Pasticceria Flego you will be spoiled for choice, they have many beautiful treats like pastries, macaroons, cannolis and mouth-watering cakes and it is all served by the friendly staff. You can also pop-in for breakfast or just for a coffee.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

trabantos/Shutterstock.com

People in Verona—and in the northeast of Italy in general—like to meet in osterias (canteen) during the day and drink wine, white from midday till late afternoon and red in the evening. Hence the (false) myth that people in this area are often drunk—in fact, they usually limit themselves to just a glass or two all day and always combine their wine with canapés, salami and other snacks.

In the winter and spring, Verona's night life is rather quiet, and if you want to meet people you will need to visit an osteria or try the clubs and discos. In summer though, things brighten as many people choose to sit outside or walk through the streets of the city centre.

Caffè Filippini

In Verona most of the apéritivo bars are located in piazza Erbe, the oldest square in Verona which offers an amazing view. The most famous one is undoubtedly Filippini where you can have a coffee or a cool drink like Prosecco while watching people slowly wandering around. If the hunger kicks in, do not worry, they serve food too.

SHOPPING

trabantos/Shutterstock.com

People fond of antiques or paintings should visit corso Sant'Anastasia and the area next to it where there are a number of antique shops Antichità Due Torri, Antichità Sottoriva, and art galleries (Boxart, Arts Nouveaux). On the third Saturday of every month, there is also an antique market in piazza San Zeno with furniture, jewellery, stamps and even old cars and motorcycles.

If you want to learn cooking the Italian way, there is a market in piazza Erbe where you can buy food products. Around the city centre there are many wine shops, such as the Istituto Enologico Italiano (via Sottoriva, 7), that have a rich selection of international and Italian wines and is located in a lovely old basement with arches.

Shops in Verona are usually open from on Monday afternoons and Tuesday to Saturday from 9am to 7.30pm, and they tend to keep close during the lunch hours. Sunday is not a good day to plan for shopping, since most shops are closed then. Markets are open from the early morning until lunch.

Piazza delle Erbe - Market

Market places have attracted people all through history, and this city market is no exception - the people of Verona as well as sightseeing tourists love this place. Here you'll find a wide range of souvenirs, seasonal vegetables and fruit and everything in between!

Passport / Visa

Italy can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit

Verona has four distinct seasons. Summer months can be very warm and humid but this is the most popular time to visit Italy. If you do not mind the heat or the crowds then June through August is good months to visit. During these months, the city comes to life with festivals, al fresco cafés and outdoor shows at the Arena di Verona.

During winter from November and February, the weather is cold with frost and heavy fog and it can sometimes drop below freezing. For winter sport enthusiasts the Italy's mountains has a lot to offer and if you want to avoid the crowd and find bargain prices on airfares then this is the period to travel to Italy.

Considering the weather and the crowd, the best time to visit Verona is during late spring and early autumn since the temperatures are mild and there are fewer tourists around.

Public Transport

Verona is a small city, and the best way to see it is on foot. However, thanks to the effective public transport system, it is easy to move around in Verona and its surrounding areas.

The company that serves the public buses is called ATV (Azienda Trasporti Verona) and they provide two different types of buses: the city bus (named "Urbani") and out-of-town buses, in all Verona Province (called "Extraurbani"). Tickets can be bought in the tourist boards, official ticket offices, tobacco shop (Tabaccheria), on the ATV link below and on-board on the bus. If you decide to buy your ticket on the bus, you should be aware that it will be an extra charge of 0.80 € and you will need to pay with exact coins. For more information regarding routes, timetables, prices, visit ATV site.
