THE CITY

Tourismus Salzburg GmbH

Salzburg was originally known as Juvavum, a trading stop on one of the Roman Empire's most important routes. It declined during hard times after the Goths' attack on Rome, and as the western part of the empire declined, so did Salzburg. All that remained was a small village.

In 696 AD the city was revived. Bishop Rupert was so fond of the area's beauty that he re-named it Salzburg after the river Salzach, and made it an Episcopal See. His successors, the bishops Wolf Dietrich, Markus Sittikusand, and Paris Lodron, were instrumental in creating the Salzburg we know today, especially its majestic Baroque churches, palaces, and castles. Most of the cultural treasures, including the Altstadt (the Old Town) and the Hohensalzburg fortress, are in the western part of the city known as Salzachufer.

One of the world's most outstanding geniuses, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, was born here in 1756. His place of birth, Hagenauer Haus, still stands to this day.

After World War II, Salzburg became one of Austria's most important commercial centres as well as one of its largest tourist destinations. One of the major reasons was the 1964 film, "Sound of Music."

The new Salzburg, with its banks, railway and bus stations, Mirabellplatz and many cheap hotels has sprung up on the right side of the river Rechtes Salzachufer.

DO & SEE

The medieval and baroque area of the city is a world cultural heritage site and features a number of impressive and historical sights, as well as museums and family trip destinations.

Visitors can almost breathe the history of the town on the River Salzach while also catching plenty of glimpses of contemporary architecture and the modern world.

Fortress Hohensalzburg perches regally at the top of the 'Festungsberg' and is one of the largest fortified defence systems in Europe. Gazing down to the foot of the Mönchsberg visitors see the festival district and the large festival hall, Felsenreitschule riding school built into the mountainside, and the 'Haus für Mozart'. The Getreidegasse is a well-known attraction and is one of the most attractive and heavily frequented shopping streets in the world. A stone's throw away there is Salzburg cathedral with its imposing dome and magnificent facade made of marble hewn from the Untersberg.

Festung Hohensalzburg

The first thing to do is to take the cableway up to Hohensalzburg fortress. It is the best-preserved medieval fortress in Central Europe, and the views from atop the 1,660 foot-high Festungsberg Mountain are remarkable. To the north is the city with its church spires, and to the south the Alps.

Address: Festungsgasse, 4

Altstadt

Most of Salzburg's tourist attractions are in Altstadt, the Old Town. However, the charm of the area itself is possibly the biggest draw of all. It is a listed UNESCO world heritage site, full of quaint squares, fountains, Baroque churches, chubby medieval buildings, wrought iron signs, and much more.

Museum of Natural History

Museum of Natural History and Technology, aquarium with 40 display pools, 56 terrariums with live reptiles and amphibians, a dinosaur hall, a space display, a world of crystals, a journey around the human body, a tour of the ocean and a science centre.

The aquarium is quite rightly said to be one of the most attractive aquariums in Central Europe. More than 40 display pools provide an insight into the magical underwater world. Every Monday visitors can watch the feeding of the reef sharks.

Salzburg Festival

OPERA, THEATRE & CONCERTS OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY! The Salzburg Festival is famous all over the world and a highlight in the cultural year every time. Every summer the Salzburg Festival transforms the city of Mozart into a gigantic stage for a number of weeks.

On 'first nights' the Hofstallgasse along the front of the main festival hall is packed with luxury limousines and members of high society!

A WIDE RANGE OF EVENTS FOR A COLOURFUL FESTIVAL PROGRAMME!

Every year the Salzburg Festival stages around 200 events.

Several great venues are used to find the best stage for a colourful range of events. Some of the best known venues include the main festival hall, the Felsenreitschule, the House for Mozart and Domplatz square, upon which the famous morality play 'Everyman' is staged.

HERBERT VON KARAJAN AND THE SALZBURG FESTIVAL!

The era of Herbert von Karajan began in Salzburg in the post-war years. In 1948 he conducted his first operatic production in the city – Gluck's Orpheus. In 1956 he was appointed artistic director and in 1957 he directed Beethoven's Fidelio for the first time. In 1960 Herbert von Karajan opened the new main festival hall, heralding the dawn of a new era when he conducted Richard Strauss's 'Der Rosenkavalier'. Although Karajan was no longer the sole artistic director from autumn 1960 onwards, and was part of a board of directors from 1964, he was still the one pulling all the strings and making the key decisions. He was the very last 'absolutist ruler' as one obituary remarked following his death in 1989.

In 1967 he established the Easter Festival, which he managed until his death. Every year he worked on a new operatic production with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, who were made available by the Berlin Senate for the occasion. He also founded the Salzburg Pfingstkonzerte at Whitsuntide.

SALZBURG FOR TRAVELLERS

The city of Salzburg has the ideal holiday itinerary for every type of traveller - for families, gays and lesbians, lovers, culture seekers and short break enthusiasts.

Discover the very best of Salzburg in just 24 hours, 48 hours or on a laid-back family holiday. Lovers and romantics can visit the world's most magnificent wedding hall – the marble hall at Schloss Mirabell palace.

Salzburg for 24 hours

Just one day in Salzburg can be enough to fall in love with the city eternally. Your short trip should begin with a tasty and nourishing breakfast in one of the numerous coffee houses around the city.

Shopping fans will love the Getreidegasse.

See Salzburg up on the Mönchsberg or Kapuzinerberg!

These two mountains within the city are both popular attractions for very different reasons. The Kapuzinerberg mountain offers the peace and beauty of natural surroundings, whereas the Mönchsberg provides the Museum of Modernity, the m32 restaurant and Fortress Hohensalzburg.

Possible outings to the south of the city include Schloss Hellbrunn palace with the old 'Wasserspiele' trick water jets or a ride up the Untersberg mountain with the cable car.

The following sights are must-sees on your walk across the city:

- Fortress Hohensalzburg – 'the castle'
- Salzburg cathedral
- The Franciscan church
- St. Peter's district including the monastery, church and graveyard
- The house where Mozart was born – 'das Geburtshaus' in the Getreidegasse
- The Residence Palace stately rooms
- Mirabell Gardens on the other side of the River Salzach

There is a great deal going on in the city of Salzburg with over 4000 cultural events every year. Theatrical performances, castle concerts, jazz events, readings and salsa evenings – there's something of interest on every day of the week.

Salzburg for 48 hours

In Salzburg there are medieval areas of the town, bright and colourful floral gardens, and modern architecture – all just a few minutes' walk from each other. One of the great things about Salzburg is that many of the most fascinating and beautiful sights can be discovered on the way from A to B.

Day 1:

On the first day we recommend a walk up to Fortress Hohensalzburg, a tour of the stately apartments and the museum, a look around the cathedral and a visit to the Franciscan church, followed by a stroll around St. Peter's district taking in the graveyard, monastery and catacombs in the Mönchsberg hillside.

Day 2:

On the second day we propose a walk to Mirabell Gardens to see the Pegasus fountain, rose hill and gnome garden; then a tour of Mozart's home on Makartplatz square, a trip to Schloss Hellbrunn palace to witness the old 'Wasserspiele' trick water jets, or you can ride up the nearby Untersberg mountain for breath-taking sweeping vistas of the city and province of Salzburg.

Options for a short trip to Salzburg:

- Visit the popular 'Haus der Natur' museum
- Visit the Museum of Modernity
- Enjoy a boat trip down the Salzach
- Take a tour of the festival halls
- Visit the Panorama Museum

Tip: Use the 48-hour Salzburg Card to enjoy a wide range of sights.

Salzburg for Gays

Salzburg has something for everyone and, of course, that includes homosexuals.

Although first impressions might suggest the picturesque streets and lanes of the old town of Salzburg are mostly reserved for heterosexual fans of the baroque period and of Mozart – appearances can be very misleading.

There is a wide range of places to go, and things to see and do for gays and lesbians in Salzburg, including bars, cafes and parties.

Weddings in Salzburg

Romantics will find Salzburg provides a wonderful stage for a wedding or a honeymoon. May, the month of lovers, is certainly not the only time white liveried horse-drawn carriages can be seen riding through the streets of Salzburg, as weddings take place here throughout the entire year. Whether the sun is burning from high in the sky, the reds and golds of the horse chestnut trees have drawn the mantle of autumn across the city, or the old town of Salzburg lies under a blanket of driven snow – there can hardly be a more beautiful place on earth to marry!

Registry office weddings are held in the baroque marble hall of Schloss Mirabell palace. This venue provides an elegant backdrop for the most important day of your life. Couples are greeted by myriad heavenly messengers on the 'Angels' Staircase'. The mood is then captured on camera for eternity out in the palace gardens, while the happy couple marvels at the wonderful view out towards the castle and the old town.

DINING

Eating and drinking in Salzburg are pleasures of the highest order. The immense variety of options includes beer gardens, traditional coffee houses, award-winning restaurants, bars and cosy taverns.

There is an incredible range of restaurants and food outlets in the city, so connoisseurs, nibblers and night clubbers can all be sure of finding something to suit their tastes.

People eating out have some tough decisions to make in Salzburg. The county of Salzburg boasts a higher density of award-winning restaurants than any other Austrian province.

Salzburg is also a pioneer of the organic food revolution. Around 38% of the agricultural operations here are run by certified 'Bio' farmers. This enables the countless simple, down-to-earth restaurants and inns to serve Salzburg specialities that really do come from Salzburg.

Four very special breweries in the city of Salzburg offer delicious and hearty meals and snacks in a convivial atmosphere.

Visitors looking for a snack can look into one of the delicatessens in the heart of the old town, take a stroll around the Grünmarkt, or try the produce at the farmers' markets held once a week on the Mirabellplatz and Papagenoplatz squares.

Augustiner Bräu

Augustiner Bräu is the largest brewery tavern in the whole of Austria and has an enchanting leafy beer garden. Guests queue up for beer in the brewery, which is served

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Salzburg has a surprisingly large selection of bars. Just as with the restaurants, the best experience is at one of the traditional bars. In other words, head for Salzburg's wonderful beer gardens, the Biergarten. Try Augustiner Bräu on Augustinergasse 4, whose beer is still brewed by monks, or the Stieglkeller at Festungsgasse 10, part of the Stiegl brewery, with postcard-perfect views. SHOPPING

Shopping in Salzburg is an experience in itself. Visitors can choose from boutiques, fashionable flagship stores, shopping centres and traditional family-owned businesses.

Obviously, Salzburg offers the usual range of designer brands, street wear and traditional shops. However, for those looking for something a little out-of-the-ordinary there are also fashion accessories with typical alpine flair, as well as traditional 'tracht' styles and lederhosen - and don't forget to round off the day with a bag or box of delicious chocolate-dipped marzipan Mozartkugels.

Lederhaus Koffer Schliesselberger

Fittingly, 'Lederhaus Schliesselberger' leather goods shop is situated on Lederergasse lane and has a family-owned business since 1422. It was established as a tannery and leather was dyed there until the beginning of the 20th century when the finished leather was then sold. Subsequently, leather goods were produced for 70 years in the Maxglan area of the town. Today the portfolio includes leather goods, travelling cases. The business also trades in all kinds of leather, furs and a variety of footwear supplies.

Knopferlmayer

The gentle charm of the display windows looking out onto Rathausplatz can hardly begin to betray the cornucopia of treasures within. The Mayer family has ruled over an emporium for handicraft utensils, decorative lace borders and buttons for almost 250 years – the latter product being of a significance above and beyond its place in the company's name.

Countless minutiously organised boxes contain an immense number and variety of buttons, probably unrivalled within and far beyond the borders of Austria.

Sporer Likör- & Punschmanufaktur

Built in 1407, the narrowest building in the Getreidegasse, next to what is now the Blaue Gans art hotel, is home to Sporer's specialist wine and spirits shop. It was founded in 1903 and is now run by the third and fourth generations of the Sporer family. Popular classics include the 'Hausmischung', made according to family recipes handed down across the generations, a fine herb liqueur, and an orange punch concentrate made according to grandmother's own recipe dating back to 1927. Connoisseurs appreciate the selection of wines chosen by certified sommelier Michael Sporer. Wine tasting sessions are held every Wednesday.
