THE CITY

Experience Linköping!

Don't miss the idyllic Old Linköping, with its artisan shops, museums and the children's favorite: the hands-on science museum, Fenomenmagasinet. The air force museum, Flygvapenmuseet, features a salvaged DC3 that was shot down over the Baltic in 1952 during the Cold War. And don't miss the canal locks in the picturesque Berg, where the Göta Canal flows into Lake Roxen. If you're an aficionado of art and museums, don't miss the Swedish computer museum, IT-Ceum, the Passagen art gallery and the county museum, Östergötlands museum.

In the downtown area you find perfect shopping with elegant art galleries, design shops and a mix of popular chains and cozy cafés.

Experience the city of many possibilities.

The garden society, Trädgårdsföreningen, and the peaceful walking paths along the Stångån River/Kinda Canal are the green oases of the city. But Linköping is also surrounded by beautiful country, like the fantastic Oak Woodland—Northern Europe's biggest continuous stretch of oak forest, just a few kilometers from downtown Linköping. This is also the municipality in Sweden with the most canal locks. Boating, walking or bicycling along the Göta Canal and Kinda Canal is an experience you won't soon forget.

The Modern Linköping

Today, Linköping is one of Sweden's fastest-growing municipalities. Home to about 153,000 people, it is the provincial capital and in many ways still a major center in the region. Linköping boasts world-class high technology and a new-thinking university, which has over 27,000 students if you count its Campus Norrköping. Founded in 1975, the university is known for its interdisciplinary principles and its creative approach to education and research. Super-hard materials for industry and healthcare, paper electronics and medical visualization are a few key new fields developed here. Linköping also has a strong environmental focus, and all of its public transport runs on green biogas.

Sweden's Aviation Capital

Linköping is also the aviation capital of Sweden. This is the only place in the country where aircraft are manufactured, and one-third of the city's business sector has ties to aviation. Linköping is also home to world-leading research in many fields, some of them related to aviation.

Linköping's History

Originally a medieval city, Linköping has always been an administrative center for the region. Parts of the medieval street network have been preserved around the central square, or Stora Torget: Tanneforsgatan, S:t Korsgatan and Ågatan Streets.

The city evolved as the bishop's seat, growing outward from the cathedral down towards St. Lars Church. Both churches were built in the early 12th century, but were later replaced with larger buildings. The Franciscan monastery was founded in 1287, and Linköping probably received its city charter at about the same time. King Magnus III and Bishop Bengt Birgersson, two sons of famed statesman Birger Jarl, who helped to unify Sweden, are said to have founded the city. Since the Middle Ages, Linköping has had a cathedral school next to the cathedral, and the city got its first upper-secondary school way back in 1627.

Linköping's Blood Bath

In 1598, King Sigismund was defeated by Duke Karl at the Battle of Stångebro. Several of the defeated king's counselors were imprisoned at Linköping Castle for treason, and were beheaded on the central square in 1600, an act that came to be called the Linköping Bloodbath.

The nightlife is concentrated to Stora Torget Square and Ågatan Street, a row of restaurants, bars and nightclubs like a string of pearls. But there are a few places along the Stångån River as well.

In the summer, the city is crammed with outdoor restaurants and cafés. On balmy evenings it's hard to find a table, because everyone wants to be there to get together with friends and drink in the atmosphere.

Thanks to the 27 000 university students in Linköping, there are also plenty of active pubs and other places especially for students.
