Already well-known as a business travel destination, Doha - capital of the State of Qatar - has emerged in recent years as a rapidly developing leisure tourism destination as well.

A dynamic modern country built on the deep cultural roots of its Bedouin heritage, Qatar presents visitors with a kaleidoscope of fascinating contrasts and experiences, from tranquility of desert to lively alleys of souq, the impressive coastal fortresses to dramatic high-rise towers, deserted sandy beaches and mangrove lagoons to elegant residential districts, green parks and luxury hotels.

DOHA CITY

Sven Hansche/Shutterstock.com

Doha is an attractive and clean city, home to more than half of the nation's population, as well as the majority of Qatar's hotels, shopping malls, museums, sporting facilities and other tourist attractions.

The city presents a modern face to the world with many traditional and historic features. There is plenty of evidence of Qatar's rapid economic growth in the number of major projects under construction.

The center of the city backs the waterfront Corniche, which extends around the length of the semi-circular Doha Bay.

Central Business District

At the north western end of the Corniche is the main business district, which is noted for its spectacular high rise architecture. Among the prominent commercial buildings are the Qatar Financial Centre and new Doha Exhibition & Convention Centre, as well as the City Center-Doha and The Gate Mall. It is also home to several top hotels, including the Sheraton, Four Seasons, Kempinski, Hilton, Marriott Marquis, Movenpick and W Hotel. The central stretch of the Corniche offers a vista of green parks backed by a number of impressive public buildings.

Al Bidda/ Souq District

Lying at the southern end of the Corniche, we find the Al Bidda district, the historical heart of Doha. Visitors can enjoy a wide range of fascinating sights and experiences, including the Museum of Islamic Art, Emiri Diwan, Dhow Harbour, Souq Waqif, Gold Souq, the spiral-shaped Al Fanar Islamic Centre and Al Koot Fort.

This area boasts another concentration of hotels. Well known international and regional brands include Crowne Plaza, Mercure, Al Bustan, Century, Oryx Rotana, Concorde, Souq Waqif Boutique Hotels and Marriott.

West Bay

Lying just to the north of the central business district is the main diplomatic quarter where most of the international embassies are located.

There are also several waterfront hotels, including the InterContinental, St Regis and, further out, the Grand Hyatt and Ritz Carlton. This up-and-coming area is where we find two more Doha's visitor highlights, the new developments of Katara Cultural Village and The Pearl-Qatar.

Aspire Zone

Inland from the heart of Doha, the outer city and suburbs have plenty to interest the visitors. The Aspire Zone is a vast purpose-built sports complex with a comprehensive range of stadiums, training venues, pools and other facilities, as well as parkland and a lake. Adjacent to the main Khalifa Stadium is The Torch, an iconic tower housing a hotel. Two of Doha's major malls are also located nearby, Villaggio and Hyatt Plaza.

Al Rayyan

In Al Rayyan district, we can find the Qatar Racing & Equestrian Club, venue for twice weekly race meeting from October to May, as well as Education

City, the Qatar Foundation's 14 square km campus featuring the Qatar Science & Technology Park, Qatar National Convention Center and the Doha branches of eight major overseas universities, six from the USA and one each from the UK and France.

Also worth a visit in Education City is Mathaf: Arab Museum of Modern Art and the Al Shaqab equestrian center, dedicated to the breeding and preservation of purebred Arabian horses.

Beaches

North of Doha on the east coast are several superb beaches, including Al Marrouna beach (also known as French Beach) and Fuwairit beach, both are about 90 minutes drive from the city.

Fuwairat beach is backed with eroded limestone cliffs forming small coves. In the summer, hawksbill turtles come ashore to nest on these beaches.

On the west coast are Dukhan and Umm Bab beaches, backed by wild palm trees and with kilometers of golden sands. The little peninsula of Ras Abrouq on the west coast also has some spectacular beaches.

Sand Desert

Qatar's largest area of sand desert lies to the south-west of the capital, with its high dunes. Here you can try recreational safaris or simply enjoy the spectacular landscape. The desert scenery constantly changes depending on the time of day and light conditions. The breath-taking colors of sunrise and sunset are especially dramatic and the clear night skies offer a rare treat for stargazers.

Passport / Visa

Visitors from all around the world can enter Qatar either visa free, or by filling out simple online applications, depending on the passport they carry.

Nationals of more than 80 countries are eligible for visa-free entry into the State of Qatar, with varying allowable lengths of stay. With a valid passport of a minimum validity of six months and a confirmed return ticket, people from the eligible countries can obtain a visa waiver upon arrival to Qatar without any prior visa arrangements.

Best Time to Visit

The best months to visit Qatar are November to early April as the milder weather conditions allow for sightseeing and outdoor activities. The summer months from June to September are very hot with minimum rainfall, so these can be difficult, especially so if you're sensitive to high temperatures.
