THE CITY

jojo nicdao (image cropped)

The city is known as the 'Gateway to Northern Mindanao' because of its key location on the shores of the island. The capital of the Misamis Oriental province and the regional government and commercial centre for Region 10, the northern district of Mindanao Island, Cagayan de Oro is a bustling, cosmopolitan city.

It is home to leading universities, including the Capital University, Xavier University and Liceo de Cagayan University, recognised for their work in medicine and agriculture. They give the city a vibrant edge and a large student population. Bookshops can be found on almost every corner.

The city is surrounded by vast plantations, including those of the Bukidnon province, famous for its pineapples. Not to be confused with the Cagayan province in Northern Luzon or Cagayan islands, the city of Cagayan de Oro can trace its history back to the 1st century AD.

Little remains of the original city due to a fire that destroyed most of its buildings in 1901. As a result, the Plaza Divisoria, a huge area of parks that divide the city, was designed and developed as a fire break. Today, it is where residents can be seen jogging, reading in the sunshine or quietly contemplating. Within the Plaza Divisoria is Bonifacio Park where local soldiers who fought for the country are honoured.

DO & SEE

Kleomarlo (image cropped)

The city offers residents and visitors many things, including fine restaurants, great hotels and the chance to enjoy whitewater rafting and kayaking along the Cagayan de Oro river, festivals, golf, spas, museums like the La Castilla Museum and the Museo de Oro, famous for their antiquities, and horse riding or trekking in the Mapawa Nature Park. With many huge malls, the city is also the shopping mecca of the Mindanao region.

Malasag Eco-Tourism Village

This is a living museum designed to capture how the indigenous tribes of Mandanao island lived in centuries past, including replica houses and crafts, as well as regular tribal shows. The village stands in tropical gardens with panoramic views out over the coastline.

SHOPPING

gpointstudio / Shutterstock.com

Cagayan de Oro is famous for being 'the' place to shop in northern Mindanao. Shopping malls and specialist shops dominate the city centre, and it's possible to find just about everything from crazy fashion items to works of art, household items and electrical appliances.

Some of the popular shopping areas are along the Don Apolinar Velez Street and Jr Borja Street. Of the malls, the first and one of the largest is the landmark Limketkai Shopping Mall in Lapasan. It has department stores and numerous shops selling fashions, cell phones and home furnishing goods to restaurants, four cinemas and children's play areas. Visitors can get their eyes tested, have a spa treatment, do some banking and have their photos printed too. An atrium in the centre often hosts exhibitions and concerts.

Other malls include Makro in Kauswagan highway, Gaisano City Mall in Corrales Street, Ororama Supercenter and Megacenter, and the SM City at Upper Carmen, Pueblo de Oro Business Park. The city has many markets too, the most notable being the city centre Cogon Public Market.

Divisoria Night Market

Plaza Divisoria comes alive after sundown when dozens of vendors set up shop in the street (selling clothes, accessories and various knick knacks) and fast food stalls operate in full mode. Live music is played, and the area is closed off to traffic every weekend after 6pm.

Laguindingan International Airport

Laguindingan International Airport opened in June 2013 and is the first international airport in the region. It replaced the old Lumbia Airport. It is located 46 km from the city centre of Cagayan de Oro.

The easiest way to get from the airport to the city centre is by taxi, but be sure that the driver uses the meter.

There are also several different shuttle van companies outside the terminal.

Public Transport

Getting around Cagayan de Oro is straightforward, with most people taking a taxi, jeepney or a motorela. White and yellow coloured taxis are seen almost everywhere around the city. Always insist to use the meter.

The more adventurous forms of transport are the Jeepney, brightly coloured ex-army vehicles and motorelas, which are a type of covered motorcycle. Always have coins with you to pay as drivers do not always have much change.
