Zadar Tourist Board

Almost entirely surrounded by the warm waters of the Adriatic, the peninsula that is Zadar city centre, along with the 'mainland' area, may not be large, but it is bursting with personality. A thoroughly cosmopolitan space, it is full of rich architecture despite its turbulent past, and offers some of the best sailing around the Zadar archipelago and along the western coast of Croatia's Dalmatia region. Its sunsets are legendary too, making it the perfect place to unwind for romantics, young and old.

The nearby town of Biograd na Moru is a well-known tourist and particularly nautical centre. The city has grown to a size suitable for living, surrounded by

ZADAR

Zadar Tourist Board

Situated in the heart of the Adriatic, Zadar is the urban centre of northern Dalmatia as the administrative, economic, cultural and political centre of the region with 75,000 inhabitants. It can trace its roots back to Neolithic times and owes its grid street layout to the Romans. Almost razed during World War II, it has only a handful of old buildings, but those that survived are beautiful and exude several centuries of Mediterranean architectural influences.

Zadar is a monument in its own right, surrounded by historical ramparts, a treasury of the archaeological and monumental riches of ancient and medieval times, Renaissance and many contemporary architectural achievements such as the first sea organ in the world.

The city has a modern and cultural feel, yet is welcoming and unpretentious. Rebuilding the city gave its residents the opportunity to blend old architecture with the new, resulting in a city full of character.

Zadar and Biograd are ideal starting points for discovering their beautiful surroundings - five national parks (Kornati, Krka, Paklenica, North Velebit and Plitvice Lakes) and two nature parks (Lake Vrana and Telašćica). The historic city of Šibenik and the town of Nin are very close.

Zadar Travel - Android and iOS app

Zadar Travel is a mobile phone application which enables travellers to easily find and book available accommodation in Zadar, chosen from facilities registered in the database of Zadar Tourist Board. The application includes Zadar, Petrčane, Kožino and some islands of the archipelago with the villages: Ist, Veli Iž, Mali Iž, Molat, Olib, Brgulje, Premuda, Zapuntel and Rava. All private accommodation facilities are presented on a map of Zadar and its surroundings. Travellers are able to contact the landlord by email or by phone, calling directly from the application. Apart from accommodation, the map contains other useful information such as Hotels, Hostels, Public Transportation, Travel Agencies, Tourist Information Centres, Public Services, etc.

Musical Evenings in St Donat's Church 13th June - 10th August 2017

'The Musical Evenings in St Donat's Church' is one of the oldest Croatian festivals. Its quality as well as the ingenuity and concept of its programme keeps the hot Zadar summer nights fresh each year.

The Musical Evenings in St Donat's Church are characterized by fresh impetus and driven by the justified ambition to permanently make it the most important musical event of the entire Croatian Adriatic.

LADO 2017

Croatian National Folk Dance Ensemble Lado was founded as a professional ensemble in 1949, with the mission to research, collect, artistically interpret and present on stage the most representative examples of Croatia's rich music and dance traditions. The ensemble consists of 37 brilliant dancers who are also exceptional singers, and as such the ensemble can easily transform from a dance company into an accomplished folk choir. In addition, the ensemble prides itself on having an orchestra of 15 virtuoso musicians who are capable of playing over 50 traditional and classical instruments.

Biograd Boat Show 19th-22nd October 2017

Years of continuous growth have resulted in the biggest vessel exhibition in Croatia and wider area. Acceptable prices and quality infrastructure of the organizer, Ilirija d.d., include Kornati Marina, Ilirija hotels, restaurants and entertainment amenities.

Every day of the fair, the sunset marks the end of the exhibition and the beginning of the evening programme offering the best food and entertainment that continues in the old town centre next to the marina, and goes on into the late hours.

We call it "Boat Show Experience", where business meetings take place and numerous visitors come and experience this show as a way of relaxing.

The fair has a strong reputation in Central Europe and attracts many visitors from neighbouring countries.

DO & SEE

Zadar Tourist Board

Throughout history, Zadar and its surroundings have witnessed many turbulent events which have turned Zadar into a sort of a city-museum. Zadar is a city where huge spaces are left for pedestrians. Using your ArrivalGuide, your walk along the cobblestone streets of the city will become a walk through history, but also an experience of the contemporary city life. When tired, take a break in one of the restaurants, pastry shops or coffee shops that you can find in this guide. Enjoy listening to the concerts, visit the theatre, museums, and exhibitions.

Church of St Donat

Built in the early 9th century on the site of the Roman forum, the largely circular building is one of the finest Byzantine examples in Croatia. It is no longer used as a church, but hosts a wide variety of musical and cultural events.

The Forum

One of the main squares in Zadar and today known as Zeleni trg, the Forum can trace its history back to 1st century. The remains of ancient architecture are on display.

Address: Forum, Zeleni Trg

Church of St Chrysogonus

Notable as being part of the great Benedictine monastery that was destroyed in World War II, the church houses beautifully preserved 13th-century frescoes and a Baroque altar.

Address: Trg Sv. Krševana

St Mary's Church and Convent

It is believed that the Benedictine Convent of St Mary was founded by a noble woman Čika from Zadar. The big three-nave church of St Mary was constructed in 1091 in the early Romanesque style.

Address: Madijevaca 10

Land Gate and Walls

The most impressive gate is the Land Gate - then the main entrance into the city - in the little Foša harbour, built by a Venetian architect

Michele Sanmicheli in 1543. It is considered to be one of the finest monuments of the Renaissance in Dalmatia, and it has the form of a triumphal arch with a central passage, and two smaller side arches for pedestrians. It is decorated with motifs such as St Chrysogonus (Zadar's main patron saint) on his horse, and the Lion of St. Mark (the coat of arms of the Republic of Venice).

Address: Ante Kuzmanića

The Five Wells Square

The Square is located on a site between the medieval city walls with a cornice and the Renaissance bastion Grimani, where the oldest park in Croatia is located, which was named after Queen Jelena Madije. While the wells are no longer in use, the Square has become a popular place for concerts and events.

Address: Trg pet bunara

St Simeon's Church

At first it was an old Christian three-nave basilica, then a Gothic construction and later an interesting monument of provincial Baroque. On the main altar there is a silver chest of Saint Simeon from the year 1380.

Address: Trg Petra Zoranića 7

People's Square

Home of the City Hall, the City Guard that houses the Ethnographic Museum and the City Loggia, the square is the heart of what was the medieval city.

Address: Narodni Trg

St Michael's Church and Monastery

On the corner of Špiro Brusina Street and Mihovil Klaić Street there is a simple and charming Gothic Church of St Michael's, once a part of the Franciscan monastery. A Gothic portal, which is adorned by reliefs from 14th century, dominates the facade. In its single-nave interior there is a painted wooden Romanesque crucifixion from 13th century. There is also a small collection of art works in the monastery. The present church was built in 1389 and added to in 19th century.

Museum of Ancient Glass

The museum is one of the city's newest attractions and rightfully so. It's housed in the 19th century Cosmacendi Palace. The museum contains one of the premium collections of Roman glassware outside Italy, with a cornucopia of goblets, jars and vials retrieved from archaeological sites across Dalmatia. Take the opportunity to see the replicas of Roman glassware on sale as you will no doubt enter one of the classiest souvenir shops in the city.

The Greeting to the Sun

The Greeting to the Sun consists of three hundred multi-layered glass plates placed on the same level with the stone-paved promenade in the shape of a 22-metre diameter circle. Simultaneously with the "most beautiful sunset in the world" the colourful lights turn on, and they produce a marvelous, exceptionally impressive show of light in the rhythm of the waves and the sounds of the Sea Organ.

Riva

The sea promenade called Riva is a wonderful place to walk around and enjoy its beautiful green parks and palm trees. It is a first class city promenade with the view over the Zadar channel, the islands of Ugljan and Pašman and the open sea to the northwest.

Address: Obala kralja Petra Krešimira IV

Kalelarga

Also known as the Wide Street (Široka ulica), is the main and most famous street in Zadar. Some people say it is even older than the city itself, stretching in the direction west - east from the People's Square (Narodni trg) to the famous Roman Forum. To this day it follows the layout of the main longitudinal Roman street (Decumanus Maximus) - the main city street that flowed through the spine of the peninsula. The strict Roman urbanization simply proved its natural placement, and future urban time periods did not change anything in that respect.

Zadar Archipelago

Zadar archipelago consists of more than 300 islands, although only a handful are inhabited. Daily ferries run from the ferry port to the larger islands.

Among the most visited are Dugi Otok, the largest of the islands and a popular haunt of fishing enthusiasts, and Ugljan, where many Zadar residents own properties, along with the smaller islands of Pašman, Molat, Olib, Silba and Premuda. All offer relaxing coastal or beach walks, while most have restaurants, historic sites to see and opportunities for water sports.

DINING

Zadar is surrounded by fertile valleys of the Ravni kotari region in the hinterland and with a group of sunny islands abundant in natural beauties and crystal clear sea. Mild Mediterranean climate is ideal for an organic food production. Vegetables, olive oil, aromatic plants, oily fish and seafood in general are the basics of Mediterranean cuisine which is well-known worldwide and appreciated as the healthiest and the tastiest diet.

In addition, some of the best-known local delicacies are spit-roasted lamb and pašticada. For a starter you should try well-known sheep's cheese of Pag and Dalmatian smoked ham or prosciutto.

Our region is an ideal place for those who enjoy good food and wine, and for those who want to experience the scents and sounds of a typical Dalmatian atmosphere.

Atrij Restaurant Bar

Restaurant Bar Atrij, with a variety of dishes and drinks, awaits its guests from early morning until late evening. For breakfast Atrij offers muffins, croissants, toast, omelettes, and various types of cakes, for lunch they offer simpler dishes like pizza, pasta, fish and meat dishes, while in the evening, the restaurant transforms into a cozy lounge bar.

BIOGRAD NA MORU

Biograd na Moru Tourist Board

Biograd na Moru is a Croatian royal town first mentioned in 10th century, while it was the seat of Croatian kings and bishops in 11th century. Biograd experienced its greatest flourishing as the capital of medieval Croatian rulers, and in the year 1102 the Croato-Hungarian King Coloman was crowned in Biograd. Biograd has preserved from its past history the Christian sacral buildings of the parish church of St Anastasia (1761), early Romanesque church of St Anthony (13th cent.), and the church of St Rocco (6th cent.)

From the ancient edifices of Biograd only the basilica of St John (9th cent.) survived the Venetian destruction of Biograd in 1125, but on the nearby island of Pašman still stands the 800-year-old Benedictine monastery of St Cosmos and Damian (1125) and the Franciscan monastery of St Dujmo dating from 16th century. Biograd is also a very interesting destination for cycling. Those who are ready to undertake long and demanding endeavors will find the cycling trails around Lake Vrana interesting and can thus reach the viewpoint Kamenjak from which there is an unforgettable view over the entire archipelago and the island of Pašman. The position of Biograd makes it ideal for sailing.

Sports recreational fishing fans, whether freshwater or sea, will find here the perfect location for their hobby. Lake Vrana is only a couple of kilometres from Biograd and it is ideal for angling with numerous kinds of birds making it also ideal for bird-watching.

The waters around Biograd are ideal for diving fans - for professionals as well as those who wish to take their first steps in discovering the sea depths.

The town offers a handful of sports and recreational activities. A tennis centre is located in the pinewood near Soline Beach, close by are soccer five-a-side fields, basketball and handball courts, Italian bowls and beach volley. There is also an equestrian club in the proximity which offers recreational and therapeutic horseback riding and riding excursions.

The town beaches are situated in a marvelous pinewood, in the very centre of the town and connected with a walkway. On the beach you can rent a scooter, motor boat, canoe or pedal boat, and if you are looking for adrenaline, you can fly a parachute over the waters, water skiing, surfing and other water activities and sports. In Ilirija swimming pool you can play water polo or join a swimming club.

If you wish to have a special treatment on the beaches of Soline and Dražica, massage treatments are available. Ilirija hotels, Hotel In and Hotel Adria offers a complete wellness experience.

A special offer is the discovery of the submarine world in a semi-submarine.

Here is a list of cafes with beautiful terraces overlooking the sea.
