If you like food, art and architecture you will feel right at home in Rouen. You can find this historical capital right in the heart of Upper Normandy. Since being located on the banks of the beautiful Seine River, the French countryside and picturesque areas like Connelles and Val-de-Reuil can be found just around the corner. Walking through Rouen is like walking through history. This is truly a city with an abundance of lovely old buildings, markets and shops. Whether you are staying for long or just passing through, this town will certainly leave a lasting impression.

THE CITY

With a history dating way back, “The city of a hundred spires” is an old city that had its most prosperous days during the Middle Ages. This is not only where the famous author Gustave Flaubert lived, but also the city where Joan of Arc was convicted and burnt at the stake in 1431.

Rich in art and history, Rouen today has approximately 500,000 Rouennais living in the city and urban area. Because of all the students living here, this is a lively city both day and night. Here people simply relax and enjoy the best in life. The countryside offers an even more relaxing atmosphere. Rouen and surroundings are full of history and places to discover. With Paris only a 90 minute drive away, the opportunities here are endless.

DO & SEE

The French food will definitely keep your stomach full and the beautiful scenery will without doubt satisfy your eyes, but when it comes to activities in and around Rouen you will also have your hands full. The area is not only full of historical sites, but also very popular for outdoor activities like hiking, bicycling and sports.

In Rouen the Notre Dame Cathedral is a must-see, not to be confused with the cathedral in Paris. This was the cathedral that inspired Monet to paint his cathedral series. Wandering the street in Rouen you will also come across The Gros Horloge, a beautiful clock right above a pedestrian street.

If you want to explore the surrounding areas there are many daily excursions to go on. You can visit Monet’s home in Giverny, which is one example of a popular attraction outside the city. Another interesting site is Jumièges Abbey, the ruins of a Benedict monastery, that can be found in Jumièges.
